

Safe Havens for Navy Personnel

Preparedness Empowers You It saves lives, property, and time.

Emergencies happen, often with little or no notice. By taking action beforehand you can be prepared for any emergency.

Be Ready Navy! I am. Are you?

It is your responsibility to understand the mass warning system at your installation and, when notified, be prepared for the following:

- » Evacuation
- » Moving to designated safe haven
- » Moving to civilian shelter
- » Temporarily sheltering-inplace

In the event of an emergency, Navy Regional and Installation emergency management organizations have plans and procedures to direct evacuation. When time permits, the preferred protective strategy for nonessential and nonemergency personnel is evacuation to a civilian shelter, remote safe haven, or designated place outside the danger area. In emergencies with only a short to moderate warning time, installation authorities may direct people to one or more designated safe havens.

Safe Havens

A safe haven is a pre-designated facility that Emergency Management will activate as warranted for use as temporary protection. This location is usually not certified, insured, supplied, or regularly staffed.

A safe haven may be local, either onboard or in the immediate vicinity of an Installation, such as auditoriums, gyms, schools, and similar structures.

Or a safe haven may be remote, onboard either another geographically distinct Installation or even another Navy Region, in civilian or military lodging/housing facilities, including bachelor quarters and hotels.

In an emergency, follow mass notification instructions to the identified safe haven.

Regional and Installation Safe Haven Management Teams provide for the activation and operation of local and remote safe havens. Plans are coordinated with military and civilian authorities and may include provision for food, water, medicines, and security. If you are directed to move to a local or remote safe haven, there are a few things you should know:

- Even though safe havens may provide water, food, medicines, and basic sanitary facilities, you should bring your emergency kit to ensure that your family has the items that meet its needs.
- Safe havens usually involve staying with many people in a close proximity, so it is important to cooperate with safe haven managers and others assisting them.
- Depending on the situation and regulations of the safe haven, pets may or may not be allowed. Ask your Installation Emergency Manager for clarification and/or restrictions if you are unclear. Ensure that you address the needs of your pets while at the safe haven by bringing enough food and water for them.

How to Prepare

- 1 Be informed. Navy personnel with NMCI or OneNet access must self-register all home phones, cellular phones, and email addresses, etc. in the Wide Area Alert Network (WAAN) to receive notifications wherever they are.
- 2 Make a family emergency plan, including an emergency communication plan. It will prepare you to cope with possible separation of family members.
- 3 Build in advance and take along an emergency kit that can sustain your family for at least three days.
- 4 Once you are in a safe place, muster with your command if you are military or civilian personnel or a member of the selective reserves.
